

Simiso Ntuli

Dr Simiso Ntuli is currently the HoD of the Podiatry department at the University of Johannesburg and practices part-time at Lesedi Private Hospital in Soweto. Before joining the University of Johannesburg, he worked as a Podiatrist for the Ekurhuleni Metro-Municipality. Simiso spent six years in the United Kingdom, where he worked in the NHS employed by the Redbridge PCT.

His interests in Podiatry include the at-risk foot, foot morphology and function, including podiatry or foot health services within the mainstream healthcare sector in South Africa and /or Africa and primary healthcare. His research interests include diabetic foot complications, healthcare policy and podiatric medicine education.